What the Leader of the Silver Forces Proposes.

BLAND'S NEW MEASURE.

It Will Repeal the Sherman Law and Substitute Free Colnage.

That Is the Ground Upon Which the Fight Will Be Made-Representative Henderson of North Carolina Also Bas a Plau,

WASHINGTON, Aug 4 .- As soon after Congress meets as it becomes practicable, Mr. Bland, leader of the silver forces in the House, will introduce a bill embodying the views of silver men. It will provide for a repeal of the Sherman purchascoinage of silver at the present ratio of 16 "That," said Mr. Bland, "will to i. "That," said Mr. Bland, "will be the ground upon which we will make a fight, although there has been no definite plan agreed upon." He recognized that men could hooestly differ as to the ratio, but that was a matter that should be estiled in the party itself. Upon both gold and silver as money at a parity the Democratic party could not differ. If a compromise measure increasing the ratio was reached, he said, he saw no reason why the present dollar should not be kept in circulation, as it was now. He proposed, however, with all his power, to resist any increase in the ratio.

with all his power, to resist any increase in the ratio.

Representative Henderson of North Carolina, his a plan for the adjustment of the silver question that he holds out to be satisfactory to persons who wish to see the Democratic platform declarations carried into effect without creating divisions in the party. This might oe accomplished, he thinks, by passing a bill requiring the absolute purchase of a certain proportion of each metal each month and the colange of all metal purchased. Congress might from time to time change these proportions as the needs of the country seemed to require, and thus adjust the circulation to the demands of business.

reports circulated regarding the appoint nt of committees. He has not decided upon a single appointment and will not several days, certainly not before the arrival of the president and Secretary Carlisle, and probably not until the caucus shall have officially designated him as its candidate for speaker. He does not expect to announce the committees some expect to announce the committees until eight or ten days after the organization Monday. He will make an exception of the Committee on Coinage, but has reached no such determination as yet.

The speaker's sole aim is to do only that which will be of the greatest interest to the party in co-operation with the administration. The truth is that all depends and contine his recommendation strictly to repeal with no hint of subsequent legislation in the direction of bi-metallism, it might be considered wise to put Cockran against the redoubtable Bland, in which event Cockran would be backrupt if compelled to give it is printed here from Ambassador Bayard at London saying: "I am looking some chairman of the Coinage Committee.

If on the other hand the president should deem a more pacific policy advisable, it might be considered wise to permit Bland to retaic his position if he should care to do so despite the opposing majority in his committee. As the composition of the Ways and Means Composition of the Ways and majority in als committee, as the com-position of the Ways and Means Com-mittee will be effected by that of the Coinnge Committee, especially with reference to Cockran, it is easy to see that the reasons for the statement made ove, viz., that all depends upon the mident's policy as outlined in his mes-

Dockerey of Missouri, a leading mem bockersy of Missour, a leading member of the committee on appropriations, tonight planted himself squarely upon the Democratic platform and said he proposed to be guided by that document. He was, he said, an advocate of a double siandard and paper money convertible into either gold or silver.

appropriation committee, said a condi-tional repeal of the Sherman law was what he wanted, and all that Congress would give. He favors free coinage at a ratio to be agreed on by the party.

THE POPULIST PARTY.

Their Executive Committee Issue an Address to the People.

CHICAGO, Aug. 4 .- The executive con mittee of the Populist party which has been in session here since the adjournment of the silver convention, tonight issued at address to the people of the United States. It says in part: "The overwhelming spirit of this convention indicates that the whole nation is alive to the dangers which threaten us. The convention not only repudiated the idea of a gold standard and gold basis, but unanimously committed itself to the principle, that we as Populists have long beld and cherished, namely: That the law alone makes money, and that the stamp of the government con-verts sixty couts' worth of silver into a dollar equal to any gold dollar, and they unanimously accepted one doctrine that the money of the country should be ade-quate for the demands of business, and quate for the demands of business, and should expand with the growth of popun and commerce.' The address holds out the idea that the silver convention was a great victory for Populist principles as embodied in the Omaha platform, and states that the straggle will obliterate old party lines. Tens of thousands of new converts are coming to their ranks and recommending industrial legislation, and all similar organizations are valuable in organizing and concerting the people.

Four days or, on the 31st, Bell addressed a letter which he resigned his pension and dered that he had considered himselfittled to it under the former decision but he thought under Reynold's decision that he was no longer entitled to draw it. Deputy Bell, asked if the statement about his having drawn a disability pension for himself was true, replied, "I supposed that thing would come out booner or later; yes, it is true."

BEHRING SEA QUESTION,

Not Yet Known When the Verdict Will De Rendered.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.-Private advices. apparently authentic and later than those received by the state department as to the movement of the Behring sea arbitrators, have reached this city. Senator Morgan cables his son that it will be impossible for him to leave Paris before Aug. 19. This is a postponement of two weeks beyond the time originally set for the departure. For several days the Senator has been booked for a passage on the steamer suiling Aug. 5. This was taken as a sign that a verdict of the arbitrators would be rendered this week, but from the language of his cablegram it seems doubtful whether the arbitrators will have finished their duties even on the 19th. evement of the Behring sea arbitrators,

The commanders of the British and German warships and the consuls of the three powers held a consultation. It was decided to demand Mataafa's surrender, and the British and German warships (there were no American vessels there) sailed for Manona. They arrived early in the morning on July 18th, sent word to Mataafa that if he did not surrender before 1 o'clock p. m. his camp would be abelled by the ships and Malietoa's warriors would be landed. As the Mataafites were weak in number and short of ammunition, they would have been slaughtered had this programme been carried out.

The Katoomba and Surrendered of the Katoomba and Surrendered for action and the men stood at the guns. Sperber had gone to the other side of the island to prevent escape in that direction. German vessels returned to Apia, whils the Katoomba remained to disarm the followers of Mataafa. Following is a copy of a letter sent by the consuls to Mataafa, demanding his surrender.

"We the three cousuls of the treaty powers, hereby give you notice that if you and yours, chiefs and wounded come on board the English man-of-war within three hours from the time the boat which brings this reaches Monano your lives will be safe. If you do not come the three men-of-war will open fire on you and you will be attacked by the king's forces. Your followers must bring all their arms to the British man-of-war for safety. If you do not surrender, you must still send your women and children alongside the British man-of-war for safety. If you do not surrender, you must still send your women and children alongside the British man-of-war and they will be safe. No boat will be allowed to leave Manano, unless it comes direct to the British man-of-war." Then followed a list of nearly thirty chiefs, whose surrender was imparatively demanded and the letter was signed by the three consuls.

Mataafa replied as follows: "I have agreed to all you have written me. We are pleased to obey with humility the great powers."

The consuls of the treaty powers havely a wear havely and the letter have havely a consult of the treaty powers.

great powers."

The consuls then issued the following proclamation: "To all Samoans. We the consuls of the treaty powers hereby give notice to all Samoans that Matasia and his chiefs have surrendered. The war is quite finished and further disturbances will be suppressed by men-of-war. All Samoans must return at once to their own districts and a disobeyance to this notice will be summarily dealt with."

Malietoa's army consisted of about one thousand fighting men armed with rifles, axes and long knives. This army with martial music, consisting of whistles, cornets, horns and drums, started on the morning of July 8 toward the seat of war. Malietoa's army was far more powerful than Matasia's, having plenty of arms and ammunition and many more warriors. Malietoa also had an advantage in securing the sid of tribes which Matasia had counted upon to back him.

Although Matasia had been disappointed in not securing allies, he would not surrender when the attack came and his forces being short of ammunition he retreated. Matasia seeing no hope of success, and having lost his nephew who was killed and decapitated, ordered nineteen boats to lie off Mulann, Malietoa's residence and stronghold, for the purpose of drawing Malietoa's attention, while in the meantime, darkness setting in, he lowered his ensign, cut down his flag by pole and set fire to Maile. The conquerors, Malleton's warriors, returned to Apia with the spoils of victory. The spoils consisted of bleeding heads of human beings. Each man who had the luck to cut the head off an enemy marched through the streets of Apia with his enemy's head. They walked up street yelling like flends, with eyes starting from their sockets with excitement, and throwing the severed heads about like base balls, the blood dripping all over the bearers.

Many heads were brought in this manner, and after being exhibited about town were presented to Malietoa as trophies of war. The king graciously received them and they were then thrown in a pile on the ground. Matnafa's loss was sixteen killed and seventeen wounded. Leauppe, Mataafa's nephew who was buried by his relatives on the government side. His head was carried through the town wrapped in a fine mat.

There were two German warships in the harbor, but American and British subjects were unprotected. Malietoas's excited friends marched to and fro through the town clearing everybody out of the way, while the people took refuge on tops of the houses. While the warriors held the streets, the white were at the mercy of excited natives, who were crazed with victory and bloed, and if there had been any clash would probably have been massacred.
